Lowndes During the twentieth century, black Greek-Letter organizations (BGLOs) united college students dedicated to excellence, fostered kinship, and uplifted African Americans. Members of these organizations include remarkable and influential individuals such as Martin Luther King Jr., Congresswoman Barbara Jordan, novelist Toni Morrison, and Wall Street pioneer Reginald F. COME ALONG AND VISIT SOUTH AFRICA WITH THE AKA's!! Alpha Kappa Alpha (AKA) was founded in 1908 at Howard University in Washington, D.C. It is the oldest Greek letter sorority in the United States. The word "sorority" comes from the Greek word "soror" which means sister. It is a society of college women. Every two years the total membership meets at a national convention called a "Boule" (pronounced boo-lay), also from the meeting of the Greek city-states. The Boule is usually followed by a pilgrimage to a foreign country. In 2008, to celebrate our 100th year of our existence, we made a pilgrimage to South Africa where many of our services are felt and seen through our support of schools in that area. This little book tells the story of our trip in words and pictures. Come along and visit South Africa with

Partly because of their perceived link to hip-hop culture, black fraternities and sororities have been unfairly reduced to a media stereotype—a world of hazing without any real substance. The general public knows very little about BGLOs, and surprisingly the members themselves often do not have a thorough understanding of their history and culture or of the issues currently facing their organizations. Editor Gregory S. The book examines BGLOs' responses to a number of contemporary issues, including non-black membership, homosexuality within BGLOs, and the perception of BGLOs as educated gangs. As illustrated by the organized response of BGLO members to the racial injustice they observed in Jena, Louisiana, these organizations still have a vital mission. Both internally and
